Moravian Institute considers Parents be partners in educating their children Therefore, Parents must also meet their financial commitments. A Payment Schedule for parents is drawn up. Parents are requested to adhere also help the Institute to carry out the work smoothly, and to help the children to the maximum. The Institute recognizes that some families might face hardship. Hence, its merit-cum-means financial aid scheme is continuing. This scheme attempts to provide financial assistance so that no meritorious pupil is denied the opportunity to study and train in the Moravian Institute simply due to lack of financial means. Parents who feel that they might qualify for such financial aid may, if they so wish, apply on the prescribed form, available from the Institute's office.
