COSTS, FINANCIAL AID & PARENT'S RESPONSIBILITY

Moravian Institute is a social service arm of the Moravian Church in the field of education and training. Moravian Institute considers Parents be partners in educating their children Therefore, it is necessary for parents also to meet their financial commitments. A Payment Schedule for parents is drawn up. Parents are requested to adhere also help the Institute to carry out the work smoothly, and to help the children to the maximum. The Institute recognizes that some families might face hardship. Hence, its merit-cum-means financial aid scheme is continuing. This scheme attempts to provide financial assistance so that no meritorious pupil is denied the opportunity to study and train in the Moravian Institute simply due to lack of financial means. Parents who feel that they might qualify for such financial aid may, if they so wish, apply on the prescribed form, available from the Institute's office. While the Institute will, within its limited means, make all efforts to provide aid to genuinely deserving cases, mere submission of an application is no guarantee that aid will be granted.
